DESCRIPTION

Flap boxes are the most common cardboard boxes on the market. They are also known as “American-style boxes” or “B1 boxes” and are generally made from a single piece with a stapled or glued joint. This type of cardboard box is closed using top and bottom flaps and is ideal for sealing with adhesive tape. Their great versatility and durability make flap boxes the most widely used type of cardboard box, as their simple design provides an excellent quality-to-price ratio. They are also characterized by being foldable boxes.
